

An approach between religious sociology and the science of the Maqasid of Sharia

Abstract

The subject of religious sociology is one of the important topics in the study of religious phenomena, and an attempt to uncover the reasons behind those transformations taking place in our contemporary societies, and this topic, despite its importance, is far from dealing with researchers and their religious and social approaches, and the contemplation of social transformations in our current societies clearly notes the great interaction between religion and social phenomena, and we study these phenomena; With many names.

I do not think anyone can deny that the products of modernity, the manifold technology in the joints of life, the addiction of society to social networking sites, and its submission to all political and economic developments and their effects on it, have contributed significantly to major social and religious changes in short-term times, which would not have happened without these intense and charming data.

Keywords: religious sociology, Maqasid al-Shari'a, Arab society, power, religion.
